

EXPOSURE 2010

Exposure has a reputation for building big, bold sounding amps boasting a rhythmic ability that leaves most rivals for dead. The company has recently introduced a more competitively priced range of electronics, including the 2010 amp. It has a healthy 50W per channel output and goes as loud as you could want delivering a punchy, thrill-a-minute performance. You couldn't ask for more. Actually you could – the Exposure lacks facilities, but when an amp is this much fun who cares?

